25th Floor Film Company asked for refreshing some of design and to add some more functionality.
Because of the company is working with international partners it has been said that the site should support two languages, and to have one of the main features - restricting some extra materials from unauthorised users.

MOVIE PAGE

Due to the previous version of site (it was working on Angular js and rendering data from json files which was easily accessed by any user) it was difficult to use .html files, and they needed to be rewritten completely.

Overall: back-end was developed with Django web-framework, added multilanguage data storing support, completely redesign some pages, added support for authorising via email or social network pages, and more client's requests.
